

Physician Caregiver: Heather Pugmire, MD – Ob-Gyn

“This week we had a mother who delivered a beautiful baby under very difficult social circumstances. Dr. Pugmire went above and beyond her responsibilities as a physician to try to accommodate the needs of the family and patient.”

Nurse Caregiver: Lyndzi Parkinson - CNA

“Lyndzi is all of the patient’s favorite CNA and anticipates their needs before they even have to ask. She keeps their surroundings clean and comfortable. Every patient gets a bath, sometimes two if they want it, and she is also a beautician who has been known to fix a patient’s hair prior to their homecoming. She is always willing to trade or pick up shifts even when it puts her own schedule in a bind.”

Everyone’s a Caregiver: Paula Sellers

“During one of the recent snow storms, one of Paula’s patients came in with a baby and a toddler. The patient mentioned that the valet parking team was unavailable and she had planned on using the free valet service because of the bad weather. Paula apologized that the valet team was busy and wasn’t able to assist her. When the patient came out from her appointment, Paula asked her where she had parked. Paula offered to go downstairs and wait with the children by the door while the patient retrieved her car from the parking lot. Her patient gladly accepted the offer of help.”
